

When Tomorrow Starts Without Me

*When tomorrow starts without me, and I'm not here to see,
If the sun should rise and find your eyes, filled with tears for me.*

I wish so much you wouldn't cry the way you did today, while thinking of the many things we didn't get to say.

I know how much you love me, as much as I love you, and each time you think of me, I know you'll miss me too.

*When tomorrow starts without me, please try to understand
That an angel came and called my name and took me by the hand*

*The angel said my place was ready in heaven far above
And that I'd have to leave behind all those I dearly love.*

*But when I walked through Heaven's gate, I felt so much at home
When God looked down and smiled at me from His great golden throne.*

*He said, "This is eternity and all I've promised you."
Today my life on earth is past, but here it starts anew*

*I promise no tomorrow but today will always last
And since each day's the same day, there's no longing for the past.*

*So when tomorrow starts without me, don't think we're far apart,
For every time, you think of me, I'm right there in your heart.*

Obituary

Mrs. Helen Brown Morris was born on March 27, 1935, in Allendale, South Carolina. She was the daughter of the late Viola and Raymond Brown.

Helen worked in the Food Service Industry for many years. She served as a food service worker for over 25 years. Having a servant's spirit and her love for children, Helen became a foster grandparent. She worked as a foster grandparent at Lewis Greenview Elementary School for 23 years.

She loved the Lord, her family, and spending time at the beach. Helen was an excellent cook and baker.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her husband, Arthur Morris.

Mrs. Helen Brown Morris leaves to cherish her precious memory: her son, Quentin Morris; daughter-in-law, Antionette White-Morris; granddaughter, Tanaya White-Lee; grandson, Anthony White; great-granddaughter, Danayah Lee; siblings, Raymond Brown, Jr., Martha Brown, Gloria Harden, Richard Brown, and Rose Ellmore; a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, other loving relatives, and caring friends, all of whom will miss her dearly.
