

A Last Request

To my beloved family and dear friends,

Though my journey on this earth has come to an end, know that my spirit lives on in each of you. As you gather to remember me, I ask that you hold tight to one another, forgive freely, and love deeply. Cherish every moment, for time is a precious gift.

Find comfort in the laughter we shared, the lessons we learned together, and the memories that will never fade. When the days feel heavy with grief, lift one another up, and know that I am always near—in your hearts, your smiles, and your quiet moments of prayer.

Let your lives be a living tribute to love, faith, and family. Walk boldly in purpose, live kindly, and never lose hope. Celebrate each new day as a blessing.

To my precious sons, Stanley and Christian, know that you were and always will be my greatest treasures. I am so proud of the men you have become. Carry my love with you always, and let it be your strength. Stand together, lift each other up, and never forget how deeply you are loved.

Until we meet again, know that I love you beyond measure.

With eternal love,
Sharon
