

Tribute

*A queen of the casino, where luck would dance,
With a smile that could light up a room at a glance.
You knew how to shop, each find a treasure,
In every little thing, you found your own pleasure.
Family was home, where your heart always shined,
Seeing us gathered, your joy intertwined.
A laugh that was contagious, a warmth like the sun,
Every moment together was never undone.
With purse in your hand, and earrings aglow,
You carried your grace, wherever you'd go.
Lipstick on lips, you'd greet the world bright,
A beauty unmatched, both day and night.
In the kitchen, you'd stir with love and with care,
A meal made with magic, the scent in the air.
Cleaning with purpose, everything in its place,
You created comfort, a soft, loving space.
You've traveled the world, but always came back,
With stories to tell and a full-hearted laugh.
And now, though you're gone, your spirit remains,
In the love you've left behind, we'll ease the pain.
Mom, you are missed in all that you did,
Your touch, your smile, the love you always hid.
We carry you forward, in each step we take,
With every fond memory, a piece of you we make.
Rest now, dear mother, your journey complete,
You gave us your all, and you made us whole and sweet.
We will cherish you forever, in all that we do,
Because, Mom, our hearts will always have you*

In addition to her father, Sylvia was preceded in death by her brothers, Carl Brown and Alfonzia Maloney

Sylvia enjoyed traveling with her family. She loved taking selfies and pictures with her family. She loved shopping and was a fashion queen. She always had her purse, jewelry and lipstick on every time you saw her, even if she wasn't feeling well. Sylvia's favorite place to go was the casino and she was ready to go back after she became ill. She would always win big when she went to the casino. She would make sure to travel to Florida every family vacation with her children and grandchildren, she loved Florida. Sylvia loved spending time with her grandchildren, they always kept a big smile on her face. She loved to cook her favorite meal was lima beans and okra and mustard greens and ham. She loved the colors green and yellow, and her favorite football team was the Green Bay Packers. Sylvia was a very outspoken person with a big caring heart. Sylvia would be sick on holidays and love one's birthday but that would not stop her from going out to the stores to buy a gift because that's just how caring and loving she was. She would always make sure her mother got a gift from her on holidays and her birthday because that was something she did before getting sick, and she said that her sickness would not stop her from getting her mother gifts on special days.
